THE NEW OFFICIALS

In her newly chosen city officials, who will assume active charge of the welfare of Alma May first, when the city charter takes full effect, the voters of Alma have picked five very capable men to head the city government, men who should give to Alma a government that will be a great credit to the city, and which will reflect credit upon themselves.

Charles R. Murphy, chosen mayor by a surprisingly large majority, is one of the leading business men of the city, wide-awake and a hustler from the ground up. He is a man of force and character whose opinions are not to be taken lightly. He is desirous of seeing Alma progress more rapidly in municipal affairs in order that the city may municipally keep pace with its industrial growth. He is certain to be on the job.

Four hustlers have been chosen for city commissioners. John C. Chick, a tried veteran of aldermanic bodies of the city, has shown himself to be progressive, hustling, with a deep interest in a better Alma. Floyd H. Glass, former member of city council, has in the past proven to be a very capable city official, and the voters responded Monday, remembering well that he has the ability to well serve the city. A. J. Archer of the school board is believed to have a knowledge that will make him a valuable running mate for the two younger, progressive members of the coming commission. In P. W. Creaser, the voters have elected a man of some conservatism, who desires to know before a thing is done, but with a man with a sense of responsibility, and progressive tendencies.

These young men and the older Mr. Creaser promise to form a fine combination for a better, cleaner, healthier Alma, and in them Alma has placed a responsibility that is no small one. The city is at the turning of the ways. It must either go forward now with the very much needed improvements, or be retarded for some years more, which might, and probably would preclude any great future for the city.

Much must be done here. There is a grave matter concerning sewers of the city, which the commission must straighten out of its tangle. There is the city water supply proposition to be taken care of. There are slums in Alma that must be ousted if the ousting can be done. There should be a program for beautifying Alma by additional parks and nooks, which must be settled upon, for the future years. There is a great problem ahead for the commission in regard to the Alma streets. Many other minor problems are also confronting the commission.

However, right at the start the commission will be forced to go slow. It will not have any great funds upon which to draw for improvements of any kind, when it goes into office. During the first few months of the life of the first commission of Alma, the voters of the city must be patient, and allow time for planning of these things of importance to the city; must also allow time for the finances to get in a somewhat better shape, by the replenishing of depleted and overdrawn funds.

The Record believes that this commission can do much for the city and now pledges itself to the aid of the new city government, which it aided in establishing a year ago by championing the commission form of government in Alma, in order that Alma may force to the front municipally, making it possible for new people coming to Alma to enjoy the comforts and conveniences which are to be found in the larger cities. Alma must go ahead.

THE VICTORY LOAN

In the coming Victory Loan the United States is asking the people of the country to lend their money to their country at a good rate of interest in order that the government may pay for munitions, cannon, etc., which never reached the front. The government is asking the people to lend money for the lives of American soldiers spared by the sudden cessation of the great world war.

The United States has been pouring soldiers across the ocean with greater rapidity than any of the powers at war had expected, Allies or enemies. The United States was piling up munitions at such a rate as to alarm and astound Germany. She knew, just as well as did the people of this country, that America was figuring on a gigantic spring offensive this year, which would sweep in irresistible manner over the German Empire, and dash German hopes of world domination forever. She knew, just as well as did the people of this country, that this spring would see one tank for every 75 feet of fighting front of the side of the American troops. It is probable also that Germany knew of that terrible gas that the United States was making, which was so many times worse than the mustard gas, that it would kill all kinds of vegetation, and which as a result was not to be used until German soil was reached, and as it would make a desert for years, where it was used.

Germany knew that her hope was gone. Germany knew what would happen if the war was brought to her own territory. The United States had forced Germany to quit.

The fact that this money was spent in preparing for this contemplated spring offensive, which was to drive the Germans clear to Berlin; was in fact spent on millions of dollars worth of munitions which were never used, does not mean that it was wasted. It wasn't. Money was saved.

The determination to make the spring offensive, caused Germany to quit one year sooner than had been expected. This millions of dollars from new loans were saved. The money spent had become money well spent.

In addition, and outweighing all other considerations, were the lives of those brave American boys which were saved by the shortening of the great struggle by one year. It is probable, and very likely that had the war dragged out another year, with the Allies taking the offensive this year, that from 100,000 to 200,000 young American lives would have been snuffed out.

It then follows that this money spent was money upon which no valuation can be placed. The lives of American heroes are beyond price, when it comes to money.

This is all that we are asked to do for the lives of these boys, these sons, these relatives, which have been saved to us. We have no right to shirk our duty, and the government is expecting every man to patriotically respond to the best of his financial ability.

MICHIGAN'S ANSWER

Michigan's answer to the liquor forces, which were seeking to throw the state wide open to the traffic, has been made, and it was such a heavy one, that the chances are that no further attempts to make Michigan wet will be attempted.

It is a conclusive answer to the question as to whether or not prohibition is good. Michigan, the seventh state of the union, has decided that it is elevating, morally, mentally and financially. Michigan did not need many months of prohibition in order to satisfy herself.

With a majority that has climbed over 100,000 it has become a certainty that even had the liquor forces asked for a ratification of a decent amendment, if there could be a decent amendment to allow liquor in Michigan, it would have been defeated by a good vote. This is of course admitting that the holes in the proposed amendment made thousands of votes against it.

It not only answers this question, but shows most clearly that the people of Michigan were heartily in accord with the state legislature which ratified the proposed federal amendment for nation-wide prohibition.

The voters will do well to keep away from Michigan in the future, if only for the influence that Michigan voters may have in inducing other states to give the matter a proper test.

OUT OF THE MUD

Michigan pulled herself out of the mud Monday by the ratification of the proposed amendment for good roads.

The voters, seeing into the future, launched upon a project for better roads in Michigan, which will bring federal aid to the state, insuring that such roads in Michigan will be extensively constructed, making construction cheaper and more efficient.

The voters, seeing into the future have had visions of splendid highways throughout the state, which will turn Michigan into a summer paradise, bringing into the state thousands of tourists, with their hundreds of thousands of dollars, which will be left here.

They have had visions of the farm brought nearer to the markets, his and other delivery costs of this nature lessened.

They have without question had a vision of a better state, and certain it is that their better judgment led way.

DIED FROM ACCIDENT

Miss Amy Glass died recently in Kenton, Ohio, from injuries sustained when she was run down by an automobile. She was a sister of the late John Glass of this city. Early in life she decided to fit herself for a teacher, and prepared herself ably for this work. She was a graduate of Alma college, the Michigan State Normal, Stenographic Institute of Ann Arbor and Cleary Business college of Ypsilanti. Rev. Briske, former president of Alma college, officiated at the funeral services.

VICTORY VERSE CONTEST

The Foreign Division of the Victory Loan organization is sponsoring a Victory Verse contest, which closes April 15. It is open to children as well as adults. It is required that the verse shall not be over twelve lines. Limericks will also be accepted in the contest. A silk "V" flag will be awarded as a prize to the winner. Verses should be sent to Mrs. Edward Bemis, Seventh Federal Reserve Chairman, Foreign Language Division, Woman's Liberty Loan Organization, Chicago.

Gosh!

While a Toledo man was shooting geese in his room, a bullet glanced and wounded his roommate. We have roomed in other towns where you had to go after the geese with a hammer or a baseball bat, but we'd hate to room in Toledo, where you have to go after 'em with a gun.

Well, Many Don't Seem to Have

Robert was a thoughtful child and was used to reasoning out the "why" to his own questions. One day a little boy came in from next door. He asked questions continually and Robert finally looked at him curiously and said: "Haven't you a think of your own?"

Didn't Suit Carolyn

Carolyn was fond of sweet corn. One day while the family was seated at the table her mother said: "Carolyn, I think you have had enough corn." Carolyn looked up earnestly at her mother as she said: "Mother, I hate for you to do my thinking."
